THE NEW YEAR.

In the exultant hope, the glorious future, the march upward that the new year always stretches ahead there is a similar promise to age and youth. The dawn of every January the first brings to old and young alike the new inspiration and increased courage for another tussle with life's difficulties.

Gladness, merriment, joy, greet every young year. For the passing of the old year there is no sorrow. Happiness and mirth await the advent of the new.

And this beginning again, this trying anew, this enheartening spirit that has come to be the meaning of the new year is a fortunate human trait. It is a sentiment that might be well applied to the dawn of every new day, whose setting sun will

Calomel May Turn On You Next Time

Next Dose You Take May Salivate And Start World Of Trouble.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your stomach.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your drugstore and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

cloud sorrow, hide mistaken, veil failure. It is the whole of the religion of Christ associated with daily life, the promised reward of "being born again."

Courage makes no apology for yesterday; pluck uses today; hope lives for tomorrow. Dauntless human nature grieves not for the passing of time and counts experience the best of the past, in that, it prepares for the present.

Take heart with the new year; to the sound of the new year's bells gird on fresh armor, and with the poet ring out of life the "false, grief, misunderstanding, false pride, civil slander and spite, lust of gold, foul disease" and the narrowness and selfishness that threaten and decay; ring in "the true, the nobler modes of life, the love of right and common good for all."

"Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace."

THE CITY TREASURY.

One of the attainments of the new city government is being made effective with the New Year—the city treasury plan.

It was advocated in the platform of the gentlemen who were elected to office last April, and has only been made operative after a careful analysis of the needs for a proper accounting system for the city affairs to enable its executives to know the situation.

The conduct of the affairs of a city is like any other business—it is a business proposition and should be conducted on a business basis. The legislative council is, so to speak, the board of directors. They are responsible to the people for a proper handling of the people's fiscal affairs. It is true in a town the size of Paris there cannot be a salaried manager at the head of its affairs—it must depend upon the willingness of not only one citizen but a total of seven citizens to give their time sufficiently to the management of the affairs of the corporation to know that the best possible use is made of the money that is paid in taxes, etc. They must, under present circumstances, give their time to the people of the city, without remuneration.

It is not a simple task. It is not a "job" that any one would ordinarily want, without there be some strain for public prominence. But, in the commonsenseness of circumstances, who is there that aspires to such when the burden of duty is fully impressed? It must be a public spirited citizen or citizens—he, or they, must have the interests of the future of the city at heart—and, he or they, cannot sacrifice the accumulation of maybe years of experience and reputation and business integrity, even though it be not an individual business or profits not immediately the said public servant and servants.

The city treasury plan provides a modern system of accounting and gives the city executives an opportunity to know something of what is going on, whether or not there is an immediate head sitting right on the job day and night; it sums up and gives a double-check on the running of the maintenance and operation and revenues of a corporate body of people—something that has not existed heretofore; something that the magnitude of fiscal affairs previously may not have demanded, but does now.

Paris should have the city manager plan, possibly, eventually the people may decide it will pay a sufficient dividend to justify it.

In the meantime, the city treasury plan will have hundreds of dollars in commissions now being paid; it will facilitate paying of taxes, etc. The efficiency and economy of the city treasury plan over the previous method—if there were any method—is unmistakable; it is an aggressive step involving much prethought; it is progressive because it is an upward step in city government—an onward step in city management.

INCONSIDERATE SLAUGHTER.

Because quail seem to be unusually plentiful in this section this season is no reason for the general wholesale slaughter of them that is apparent. For several seasons past there has been a noticeable scarcity of birds, and if the inconsiderate shooting of them continue throughout the present season, next year will again find the sport crippled here.

The state game law allows only twenty quail to be slain per day by a single hunter, and yet, otherwise apparent law abiding citizens, are noted to bring in strings of from thirty-five to fifty birds, and to openly brag of their "luck." Such reckless slaughter is unsportsmanlike and unlawful.

Certainly those hunters who are in any way considerate will not kill all the quail in one covey, but will leave some for seed. The same covey will frequent an identical locality season after season, and if seed birds are left, there is assurance of finding birds in the same place the next season.

The hunting season in this county will last another thirty days. The weather has been splendid for the sport, and hunters have had many advantages. Not one quail should be shot in Henry County after February the first, nor should more than twenty quail be shot by one man any day before the end of the season, if a law that is a just law, and is a law that has been made to protect the interests of the sport for the very men who are likely to disobey it, is to be rightly observed.
